Good Practice Guides (GPGs)

Good Practice Guides are now available for use when planning a range of activities in EOTC. The material replaces the spiral-bound Outdoor Activity Guidelines for Leaders, (known anecdotally as the Red Book) which is no longer current.

The guides and supporting templates are specifically designed to address common outdoor activities that are not presently covered by the Adventure Activity Regulations or the associated Activity Safety Guidelines (ASGs). They are located at SupportAdventure.co.nz, in electronic, downloadable format, with further material to be added in due course.

The guides comprise:

- General Guidance for Organised Activities
- Overarching Risk Management Guidance
- Flatwater Floating and Paddling
- Inland Waterway Swimming
- Overnight Camping,
- Target Shooting, and
- Sliding Activities

Actions:

1. Save the link to your documentation for easy reference - www.supportadventure.co.nz/activity-specific-good-practice-information/good-practice-guidelines.
2. Pass on the link to your teachers. Anyone who plans to include these activities in their EOTC programmes should be using the guides as a reference in their planning.

Keep your School's Registration Current

If you are no longer the EOTC coordinator don't forget to register your replacement. Pass this email on to the new person and have them complete the form at www.eotc.org.nz.

This e-mail was sent to you because your e-mail address is registered with the National EOTC Coordinator Database as representative of your school.

As part of good practice EOTC management please ensure the school remains current on the database. To update the school's registration click here.

If you have any questions or the school wishes to unsubscribe to the database, please email office@eonz.org.nz or call +64 3 423 3141
